

Second International Course on Geotechnical and Structural Monitoring

Tuscany, 4-5-6 June 2015

Course Director: John Dunnicliff, Consulting Engineer

Organizer: Paolo Mazzanti, NHAZCA S.r.l.

"Following the great interest in the first edition of this course in 2014, sold out two months before the start of the course, with 100 participants and 24 partners from 27 countries, we are pleased to announce that the second edition of the "International Course on Geotechnical and Structural Monitoring" will be held from 4th to 6th June 2015, again in beautiful Tuscany.

We have decided to pay special attention to those people who were interested in attending the 2014 course but who couldn't because of the limited seating. An extra-early registration will be available for them!

The 2015 course will also have a limited number of seats available in order to guarantee comfortable seating, a small room atmosphere and an effective interaction with other attendees and the speakers.

The 2015 edition, again under the direction of John Dunnicliff and organized by Paolo Mazzanti, will follow the same general format as the 2014 course. However, the second edition will not be an exact repeat, as new topics and technologies will be presented.

The course will guide participants on how to plan and execute effective geotechnical and structural monitoring programs and will be addressed to project managers and other decision makers who are concerned with management of RISK during construction, geotechnical and structural engineers, consultants, service providers, manufacturers and researchers working in following sectors:

- Large infrastructures
- Transportation
- Mining
- Oil and gas
- Land and water management
- Sensor and equipment manufacturers

We are really looking forward to see you again in Tuscany next year!"
